

WALT – Can I write an effective headline?

Look at the examples of headlines opposite for Humpty Dumpty and Goldilocks and the three bears. They have both thought about what happens in the story and have used alliteration.

Can you choose 3 or 4 of the stories or nursery rhymes from below and write headlines for them?

- Goldilocks and the Three Bears
- Humpty Dumpty
- Little Red Riding Hood
- Cinderella
- Jack and the Beanstalk
- Hansel and Gretel
- Snow White and the Seven Dwarves
- The Scarab’s Secret
- The Lost Happy Endings

Some of the words in the grid below might help you to add alliteration.

Humpty Dumpty bashes bangs bruises bonce boy breaks	Goldilocks and the three bears girl gobbles greedy gruel grabs grub	Jack and the Beanstalk golden goose grabs glistening
The Scarab’s Secret special super saves sinister sneaky servants	Cinderella slipper shiny slips stunning silver	The Lost Happy Endings special sack story spoiled stolen

Humpty Dumpty:
‘Egg boy bangs head and breaks up!’

Goldilocks and the Three Bears:
‘Greedy girl gobbles gruel!’
